TRITERRA HIGHLIGHT

LANSING

BRIGHTON

TRITERRA EXPANDS ITS FOOTPRINT: GROWING IN LANSING AND ESTABLISHING A NEW BRIGHTON OFFICE

Exciting changes are on the horizon for Triterra! Our Lansing corporate office is expanding, with the addition of 2,700 square feet in our current building. This new space will feature a dedicated training area for both internal and external programs, a new conference room, and much-needed storage for our Vapor Mitigation team, thereby enhancing our ability to serve clients more efficiently.

In addition to growing in Lansing, we're making strides toward Southeast Michigan. In December 2024, we welcomed Mary Napier as our Director of Remediation Services. By February 2025, we had secured a new office in Brighton, further expanding our operations. Mary now serves as Regional Director for our Brighton location, helping to strengthen our presence and services in the region.

With these expansions, Triterra remains committed to delivering exceptional environmental solutions while fostering growth and innovation in the communities we serve.

MEET THE STAFF

ALEXSIS

Meet Alexis Bowen, an Environmental Scientist on Triterra's Due Diligence team. Alexis conducts Phase I Environmental Site Assessments (ESAs) and analyzes field data to ensure clients have the information to make informed decisions. Alexis holds a B.S. in Earth Science from Tennessee Technological University and has over three years of industry experience. She thrives on challenges, embraces discomfort as a path to improvement, and continually pushes herself to go the extra mile—both professionally and personally. She enjoys Triterra's warm, family-like atmosphere, where collaboration and support create a meaningful workplace. Outside of work, Alexis finds joy in caving, gaming, building computers, reading, and writing. You may find her lost in the pages of Howl's Moving Castle or embarking on new adventures. Her favorite quote, "Our virtues and failings are inseparable," reflects her appreciation for self-reflection and progress.
